

South Romania Experience with BioAktiv on Coriander Plants

It's a great honour to inform you about some excellent results obtained in Romania on coriander plant.

Below you will find details about how the trial went on:

- 1) BioAktiv was sprayed when the coriander plants were 7-9 cm tall (a little late, I admit).
- 2) The total surface sprayed was 5 hectares, in the same field with the other coriander plants which didn't receive BioAktiv.
- 3) The farmer used 5 kg, so he respected my indications of using 1 kg for each hectare.
- 4) 4 weeks later I visited the field (located in south Romania) and there was already a big difference between the plants. The ones with BioAktiv had more ramifications which meant more flowers! The other visible difference was the height: 6-8 cm more! Also the roots were longer and went deeper into the ground. At that moment the farmer estimated that the crop will be at least 10% higher.
- 5) At the harvest I went personally once more in south Romania and I filmed the entire process. The difference was even more visible and at the end of the day the results were very interesting: 15% more crop for the plants with BioAktiv! The results were very good. On the pictures and on the film you will see huge difference in size between the plants with and the plants without BioAktiv!
- 6) It's also very interesting that in south Romania we had a severe drought. There are places where the actual quantity of water was less than 5 l / square meter from the beginning of spring until the end of July! In the region where we had the coriander field the situation was not so critical, but still it was quite bad. This is why I am very happy to see that without enough water the difference was 15% in favor of our product!
- 7) It's also very important to notice a difference in the approach of the farmer from south Romania: normally on the coriander fields there are 12 kg of seeds/hectare used to start the production in the spring. This farmer chose to use 40 kg of seeds/hectare and so the drought wasn't affecting him as hard as it did to the others.
